

Rob Osburn

MC & Production

With over 20 years experience in Visual Media Production, Rob has literally seen it all.

Early in his career, Rob travelled to Africa producing language dub recordings. After returning home, he worked for CTV in the art department as a graphics operator, and was also a crew member on a season of the CBS show Survivor. Rob spent the next 12 years as a partner in a corporate video production company, where he produced hundreds of videos helping clients successfully promote their business and their products.

In 2016, Rob co-launched BNR Media Group as a Video and Digital Media Agency, servicing both corporate and commercial clients. Since then, BNR Media Group has purposefully expanded incorporating brand strategy and market consulting. The group is now made up of thought strategists and creative specialists, producing effective and inspiring media and activation campaigns.

When he's not at BNR, Rob is often found in the middle of a large group of people sharing stories, life, laughs and a finely crafted pint.
